Social Studies Standard:

8.C.1.1 Explain how influences from Africa, Europe, and the Americas impacted North Carolina and the United States.

Directions: I. The class will read the following passage.

Did you know that since early days in North Carolina, black and white musicians have played music together and have learned from each other?

Did you know that the banjo came to North Carolina from Africa, and the fiddle came from Europe? Banjo players and fiddlers created a new American music—what we call “old-time” music.

Did you know that old-time music led to blues, jazz, bluegrass, gospel, and R&B? All these styles borrowed from and shared with each other. They all blended African and European music. Did you know that these music styles are at the root of the music you listen to today, including country and hip-hop?

Did you know that these North Carolina musicians changed music forever?:

- The Salem Band and Moravian brass music
- Tommy Jarrell and old-time music
- Blind Boy Fuller and Piedmont blues
- John Coltrane and jazz
- Doc Watson and bluegrass
- Shirley Caesar and gospel
- “5” Royales and R&B

The musicians you’re learning about are some of the most important musicians in American history. Their influence continues. North Carolina is still home to some of the best musicians in the country. People come here from all over the world to learn about our great North Carolina music!
